

The project that became Jeweltown

Jeweltown is a collection of Soul Jazz songs by Joocypeach.

The inspiration for these tracks came from visiting Jerez de la Frontera in Andalucia.

Despite the language difficulties, we were able to make friends and enjoy some very special people and places.

Consequently, we decided we wanted more and rather than head to the coast and indulge with many other “Britz” we went inland and discovered some fantastic architecture. Sumptuous scenery and a country deeply rooted in its fascinating historical past.

Without the open and friendly personalities we met in Jerez we would doubtless have missed out on this glorious experience and this collection of songs would never have seen the light of composition.

Many places reflect the complexities of the past politics and of the people. The Mezquita in Cordoba having been a naturally air conditioned mosque from the Moors time in control to now having its very own magnificent cathedral right at its very centre. It is difficult to understand how it can be 50 degrees outside and yet once you walk inside the Mezquita is just so cool and refreshing.

There is much to see and admire in this country and Jeweltown is just our expression of a beautiful country and a generous people.

We hope you enjoy listening as much as we enjoyed writing and recording Jeweltown.
